

Bermudagrass

Collar region. The ligule of Bermudagrass is a tuft of hair. Blades and sheaths are smooth and relatively narrow.

Growth habit. Bermudagrass regenerates vegetatively from both below-ground rhizomes and above-ground stolons. Because of its growth habit, it appears dense and mat-like.

New shoot growth emerging from overwintering stolons and rhizomes.

Life cycle: warm season perennial.